

Dear Decision Maker, When I signed up for the Do Not Call list, I did not anticipate our government to step forward with proposed qualifications that would give telemarketers access to my privacy. As clearly as I can make it and without regard to time or any other constraints, I do not want anyone I haven't specifically invited to phone me to do so. Period. Your agency previously permitted unwanted intrusion by caving in to powerful commercial interests. Let that be the last error in judgement.
